GATHERING OF

Spokane, Boise and Butte Managers Here Today.

WILL MAKE UP SCHEDULE

WILLIAMS AND MICLOSKEY PO

This is Mr. Williams' first visit to Salt Lake, which, he was pleased to say, had always been looked upon as a great baseball town. He looked for big attendance it all the games here this year, and sald from what he had heard he would not be aurprised if Salt Lake led the league mattendance. However, both Butte and spokane do not want to be overlooked this year, said Mr. Williams, as they are anxious for good baseball again. He thinks that both of these towns will do better than in 1992, when they made big money.

the winner turned up in Callant, which may be money.

According to Mr. Williams, the Spokane club made nearly $10,000 that year, and Butte did equally as well. He says with Reilly, McCloskey, Wilmot and Gimolina as managers the league has a stronger quartette of men at its head than any minor organization in the country, and good baseball should result. He said he expected all of the clubs would be able to overcome the losses sustained last year on account of the war with the Coast league, and would be very much disappointed if this was not the east last night, where he has been looking for ball players for the Boise team. He said ne had met with fairly good success, and would be able to open up with a team that would take care of itself, he says that about half the dope published about this claiming certain players was not true, but when he gave out the names of men he had it could be banked upon that their signatures were safe on a Boise contract.

M'CLOSKEY GIVES LINE-UP.

He Is Still Short a Couple of Play-

McCloskey says some of the stories published about his signing players are libelous, and that somebody is going to get into trouble if they don't be good. He was then asked to state upon his oath just whom he had signed for the Boise team, and gave out the following as the faily true statement of men signed by Boise since he took charge of the team. They are: Elsey, first base; Jack O'Connell of last year's Fort Wayne team, second base; Houtz, left field; Buck Weaver, center field; Ed Hammond, right field. For pitchers he has Starkells, Blewett, densen, Babbitt and Ward, a voungster, whom he intends to give a trial. McCloskey says he has not yet signed a catcher, short stop or third baseman. He flurthermore says that any reports about any other players other than the above name are false in every respect.

"Mae" says he might get Zearfoss if the latter falls to make good in St. Louis, but from present indications the former Butte catcher will stay with the Cardinals. "Mac" says Donahue while east, and the former Salt Lake second baseman said that he had an offer to go with Cincinnati if he failed to land with St. Louis.

Los Angeles, Cal. March 36.—If there was advantage in the speculative contest today between the books and the bettors, it was with the latter. The handicap for three-year-olds and upwards was the best race on the card. Five horses went to the post. Tarpey and Elwood were the favored ones, but they ran last and the winner turned up in Callant, which was heavily played. Results:

First race, five furlongs, selling—Brick Fowler won, Picture second, Hercules third. Time—1:33.

Second race, six furlongs—Matronia won, Potrero Grande second, Turtle third. Time—1:15½.

A meeting of baseball magnates representing the fans of four states will be held in Salt Lake today. The meeting was cailed by President Lucas of the Pacific National league for the coming year and transacting whatever other business might come up, and the fans of Idaho, Montana, Washington and Utah are eagerly awaiting the result of this meeting.

C. H. Williams, president of the Spokane club, and John J. Liccloskey, manager of the Boise City team, arrived yesterday, and Manager Wilmot of the Butte team is expected live today. "Many a pitcher was driven to the woods with the help of Murphy," said Larry. "At first we had it fixed in this way: Murphy was seated in a window in the club house at the opposite enl of the field. He was armed with one of the strongest pairs of field glasses that were ever made. They were so strong that he could even make out the filling in players' teeth, and could detect signals made by the catcher with his eyes to the pitcher.

According to the San Francisco Examiner the doctors have examined Jimmy Britt's right arm under the ex-rays and have discovered that a bone had been broken. Britt says this occurred in the tweifth round, or he would have finished Corbett. Unless memory falls, the report of the fight by Naughton says Corbett was beaten unmercifully in the body by Britt's right handed punches. Now the same man says his arm was broken. Funny kind of dope, this.

Hill's Fore and Aft Forehead.

David B. Hill has a small nephew who has an unerring eye for detecting personal peculiarities and an embarrassing habit of commenting on them in public. "Now, Jamie." his mother warned him before dinner recently. "If you make a single personal remark about any one I'll send you straight from the table."

Jamie promised to be good. The family, gathered in the parlor, were awaiting the summons to dinner. Jamie, finger in mouth, was meditatively regarding his Uncle David, whose back happened to be presented to him.
"Muvver!" his shrill voice rang across the room.

It appeared that he had swallowed nearly an ounce of the drug, and although Dr. Forbes was quickly on the soene and worked over the unfortunate man it was no use, and he died after about an hour.

The remains were taken charge of by Undertaker Larkin, who later established his identity by telephoning to W. W. Maughan of Wellsville, who stated that the man was beyond doubt. Jefferson Wilcox. Wilcox had mentioned to his acquaintances that Mr. Maughan was a friend of his family, and this furnished the clue needed to locate his folks. Wilcox was 59 years of age and had been divorced from his wife.
